DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3,5-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim et al. (US 6,039,804).

Kim et al. discloses a crystallization tray housing as shown in Figs 1 and 2. Fig. 3 shows a side view. Each tray has a plurality of separate crystallization units arrayed as an integral part of it. The units consist of a reservoir and drop chamber around the reservoir. Each drop chamber has a shoulder for placement of a cover slip from which a drop solution for crystal growth can be suspended. (see abstract) The optimization of the geometry of the chamber is suggested in col. 6 lines 8-24. Figs 4 and 5 (see col. 5 lines 25-56) disclose that a drop of solution for crystallization be hung over the central reservoir. Kim suggests using a transparent plastic material.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to produce a reaction vessel (i.e. a tray housing) including a housing for liquid containment with several identical reaction chambers (i.e. crystallization units), each separate, which consist of a reservoir and identical reaction areas (i.e. drop chambers) in gaseous communication, because such is suggested in Kim et al.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to rearrange the placement of the reaction areas relative to the reservoir because no change as to how the reservoir and the reaction areas coact would be expected and Kim et al. suggests that other geometrical arrangements be used.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to design the reaction vessel with respect to size and shape of the recesses and reaction areas.

In respect to claims 21-30, 36-38 it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to include a top part or lid with a reaction area since Kim et al. discloses such. The other limitations are obvious design choices concerning only size and shape of the chambers. Figs 6-7 suggest the design of claim 38.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 3/19/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

4. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies

Art Unit: 1765

(i.e., more reaction chamber per area) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). In addition, Kim suggests in col. 6 lines 8-25 the geometrical limitations of the tray housing on numbers of drop chambers.

The argument that the geometry described in the last lines of claims 1 and 25 make those claims patentable is not convincing in that series of reservoirs and reactions areas therein described are suggested again in col. 6 lines 8-25 of Kim.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
